The Starfish concept answers the call for the creation of an artifact that also functions as an energy producing installation. The design intent provides a unique combination of aesthetic intrigue and artistic concept with clean energy generation.

The constant ocean waves on Santa Monica's waterfront are harnessed to generate electricity while providing an aesthetically pleasing object appreciable by all on the waterfront as a work of art.

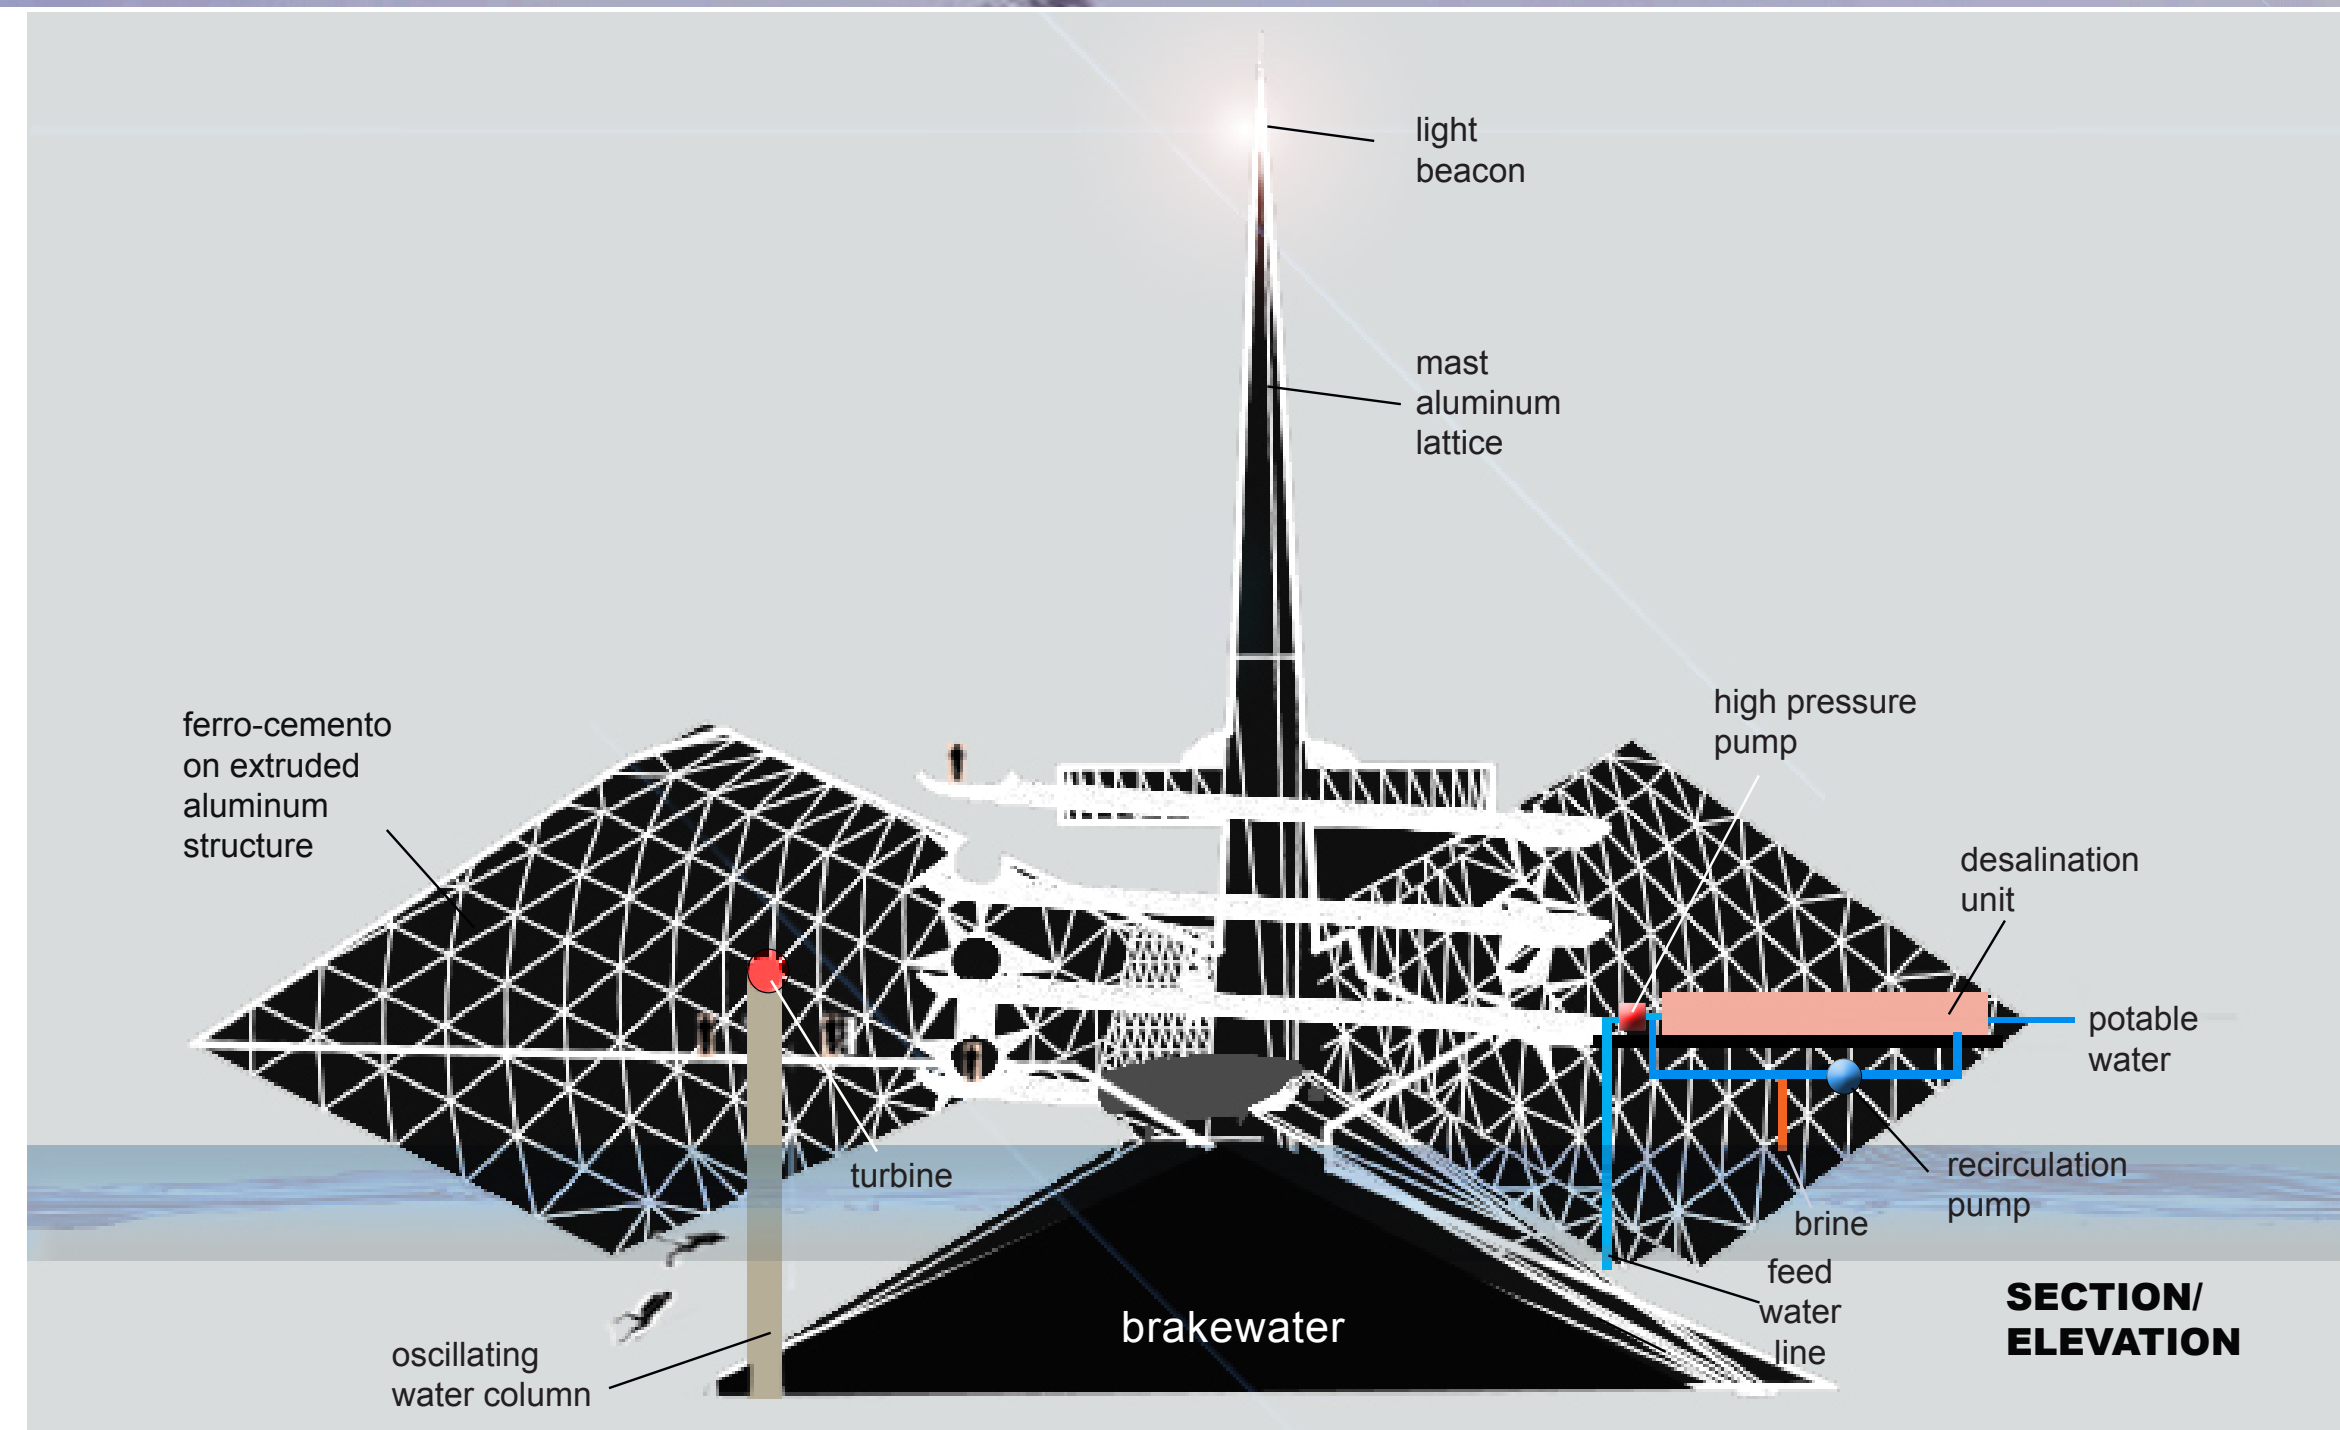

The Starfish mesmerizes with its natural beauty, it evokes intrigue, mystery and provides us a tale, a memory of survival through time, the essence of sustainability.

We can learn from the Starfish, its lesson of survival by harnessing the abundance of nature for its sustenance from the sea; the lesson, the use of natural ocean waves for energy production.
